

COLLIN GLOVER

Brief overview

As you will see from my work experience, I have been quite mobile over the last few years. I was lucky enough to learn of some lucrative opportunities in 2016 involving teaching English in China. For nearly four years, I taught and traveled throughout Asia. I came back briefly in 2018 before heading to Vietnam again for a six-month stint shortened due to COVID_19. I have been attending university since 2018 and am majoring in Psychology. I've been able to stay focused in school in various working environments. Since I have returned, I have moved in to a town home with my band and plan to stay in the United States for at least two years until my degree is finished - when I will revisit the possibility of traveling depending on where I'm at in life. For now, and for the foreseeable future, I need a stable, lucrative and meaningful work environment while I continue my degree. That is why I have chosen to apply for this position. I look forward to our interview!

SKILLS

Sales: I am an excellent salesman. I have spent years learning how to market myself, my personality, and any product that I need to sell. Before I started teachign in Asia, I only did sales jobs for years.

Customer service: Customer service comes naturally to me. I have learned how to leverage body language because in China and Vietnam, many parents did not understand English so I marketed my classes with charisma alone. I have also worked various customer service jobs in America, and have a high degree of empathy for shoppers/customers.
