

Eric Friess

2417 W. 24th St. Apt#104

Greeley CO, 80634

Cell PH: 720-763-4997

Email: efriess32@gmail.com

Objective:

My objective is to succeed and excel in any position that I am in, using the skills that I have acquired through my term of employment. Also to make whatever company I am with be better.

Experience:

Through the time that I have been working at Acme Manufacturing I have obtained numerous skills and training that would make me valuable for a variety of positions. I was a picker for eight years. In that time I took it upon myself to become certified on the forklift, learn all of our current products, and learned as much as I could about the company. I took those skills and put them to use when I transferred to do inventory control. While I have been doing inventory control I have gained a great deal more knowledge about the company. I do receiving when the normal receiving person is not in. Also from February of 2012 to October of 2014 I was the night shift production supervisor, along with doing my normal inventory control job. I understand the way that production tickets work and have a good grip for the way material should be handled in production as well. The inventory control job has helped me out for the night shift production supervisor job. Both jobs helped me out to become a successful inventory manager when I got the opportunity to do so.

Employment History:

Acme Manufacturing, 4661 Monaco St., PH: 303-355-2344; 2003 – 2017

Inventory Manager: October 2014-June 2017

I was in control of overseeing all aspects of inventory at Acme. I had employees that were tasked to do such things as running a cycle count program and in full control of all of the receiving operations there. On any given day I was in charge of 8 to 10 million dollars in inventory

Night Shift Production Supervisor: February 2012-October 2014

I was overseeing production on the night shift. I made sure that machines stay running and employee's stay working. Issues have arisen that I needed to make a decision on, like quality of product and what we can do to keep product coming off of machines.

Inventory Specialist: February 2011 – October 2014:

My duties are cycle counting inventory and determining what variances in inventory are caused from, such as finding receiving, shipping and manufacturing issues that cause discrepancies within the inventory.

Picker: March 2003 – February 2011:

Labeling product with UPC stickers and shipping it to customers per order. This was an incentive based job that I succeeded in, getting paid by the pound. For eight years I was one of the top picker's in the company.

Norton Construction, 2300 37th St, Evans CO 80620, PH 970-356-2457

Framer: August 2001- December 2002

Education:

Graduated from Platte Valley High School in 2001

References:

Available upon request