Work Experience

Production Worker

Waterpik - Fort Collins, CO

March 2019 to Present

I have been involved in the rework line. Where I believe I did a great job. Then was removed and placed in "franking Stein" crew, which helped save well over a thousand units. Quickly I was chosen for multiple tasks. Eventually I ended up in injection molding. Also I feel like I'm a good fit for the tasks demanding of this position. I have also done cross training in the banding department, and I am proficient in that area as well. I wish to continue utilizing my skills as a production line lead. Where my skills of 15+ years of management can be utilized.
