I am a very dedicated and determined person who enjoys problem solving and working with and learning new people. I would love to find a job that is continually challenging and has something new offer each day if it's working in a new area or with a new product or even working with a new co worker I am always willing to learn and try something new. I hope to find a career where I can put in the hours consistently so I can start to build the life I desire outside of work. Thank you

Willing to relocate to: Thornton, CO - Denver, CO

Authorized to work in the US for any employer
