EXPERIENCE

02/2004 - 06/2020

Tradehome Shoe Stores INC, Cottage Grove , MN USA

I started as a part time employee in 2004 making $8.67 per hour. Around 2010 I became "#2" in the ranks, so to speak, in the warehouse making $19.75 per hour with a $13,000 annual bonus, which I held until 2019. I was however let go by Tradehome after family issues started messing with my punctuality and attendance. Basically, cut and dry, my wife would not be home in the morning for me to go to work. That happened quite often and as they should have been, Tradehome was fed up. So after 16 yrs they terminated me. Which I do not hold any ill will towards anyone.

PERSONAL INTERESTS

I have a few interests that have stayed with me over the years and a couple brand new ones after I hit 40. I like to stay active playing softball and keeping up with my 9 year old. I also enjoy camping, fishing, ice fishing, and basically anything outdoors. Since the covid quarantine started, with the help of you tube, I learned to draw, something I never thought I could do and became half ways decent as well.

REASONING AND OBJECTIVE

It has been tough since losing my job with Tradehome Shoes finding work. Along with Covid 19 being a huge issue there were other things that have kept me from working full time since. I mean I have been working with DoorDash when I can. Anyways, another major issue was the passing of my father on October 29th, 2020. I have one brother and my parents are divorced and never remarried. Well he didn't have a will either leaving everything up in the air besides what he's had told me and my brother. Anyway long story short we lost conservatorship hearing. But since his passing we were named co-executors of his estate. Had to lawyer up and go through the probate process, which we are still in. My brother lived in Chicago and has since left there and moved up here for a bit to help me out with closing out the estate and getting the house ready for sale and everything needed to satisfy the probate court.

So my objective is to get back into the game with a clear mind and use my excellent work ethic to help make your company just a little bit better and maybe even a little bit more efficient. In hope of the ultimate goal, showing my daughter that no matter what happens in life if it knocks you over, get up and continue to do your very best and never give up on yourself.
