I am very quick and fast learner . I tend to learn things real fast probably a week or a few days if its just few simple steps . I am also very good at following directions and following orders and also a very good listener . Once I come to problem in my work area as if its hard for you to do I would either ask some co workers that know the job better than me to guide me through it . Then again, I would try my best to do it next time or if i can't do it just wait for someone to help me out . If their is a altercation going on with me and employee i would simply turn around mind my own business and tell my manager so he knows whats happening .
