AMERICAN FURNITURE WAREHOUSE - 2011 to 2012

I had to utilize teamwork to make sure that everything had been unloaded and stocked correctly. I also had to inventory shipments and take note of any missing or damaged products. There were times when we were understaffed but because of our strong relationships, my co-workers and I we were able to use cooperation and communication to get the job done.

WOW! (AMERICAN FURNITURE WAREHOUSE)

2010-2011

It was my duty to unload and inventory new shipments of product as well as deliver them to customers. I also had extensive experience using riding and electric forklifts to move product around the warehouse. During these deliveries, I had to build relationships with customers who were letting me in their home and trusting me with their purchases. There were times when I had to deescalate unforeseen situations (furniture too large, etc.) with our customers since I was the sole representative of my company. I also had to be a team player by covering the shift of sick coworkers to insure that the customer received their order in time.
