OBJECTIVE

To obtain an audit internship for summer 2018

EXPERIENCE

- 11/15 - Present Sales Associate, Old Navy
- Being one of the most prolific clothing retailers worldwide, Old Navy is an establishment that continues to hone my skills in the sales environment. The benefits of shopping at Old Navy is self-explanatory to most customers, however, we are also trained as associates to ensure that our customers are involved in a more meaningful way; a prime example being the Old Navy Rewards Card. Talking with customers only briefly and explaining the merits of the card not only helps the company as a whole, but also the consumer. My current role at Old Navy is ensuring that the store is neat and orderly as well as maintaining the facilities of the store such as the bathrooms and fitting rooms remaining stocked and presentable.
- 11/11-02/15 Sales Associate, The Home Depot
- Making the customer "first" was my main responsibility amongst the more common routine tasks any retailer will require of its associates. Working in the appliance department allowed me intimate relationships with customers whose purchases would be life-changing in the most profound way both financially and personally. With tactful thinking and personable demeanor, I was able to turn potential buyers into lifelong Home Depot customers along with creating a comfortable experience for myself and fellow associates.
- 03/10-11/11 Host, Coopersmith's Pub and Brewery
- Coopersmith's pride was in its stellar food and drink, but also based most plentifully in the servers and staff making the guest experience memorable. While hosting, I would coordinate table arrangement, seating guests as well as bussing tables for faster turn-around as well as alleviating the potential wait-time for those still looking to be seated. Adhering to strict guidelines for customer interaction, I was part of a successful team and business that has been established for over twenty years.
