Mucopain® Gel

What is this product?

Mucopain 0.2 % Gel is an effective numbing medicine used before surgical procedures. It blocks nerve signals from a specific part of the body to the brain. It is categorized as a local anesthetic medicine. It is used to reduce pain or discomfort caused by minor skin irritations, sore throat, sunburn, teething pain, vaginal or rectal irritation, ingrown toenails, hemorrhoids, and many other sources of minor pain on the body surface.

What is it usually prescribed for?

- Local anesthesia

This medicine is used to numb a specific area of the body to reduce pain and discomfort caused by surgical or other invasive medical procedures.

- Pain and irritation

This medicine is used to relieve pain, swelling, and discomfort associated with conditions like sunburn, insect bites, minor cuts, scratches, and burns.

- Hemorrhoids

This medicine is used to relieve pain, itching, and discomfort caused by hemorrhoids.

- As an Anesthetic

Mucopain® Gel (Benzocaine) is used short term to relieve pain from minor mouth problems (such as toothache, canker sores, sore gums/throat, mouth/gum injury). It is a local anesthetic that works by numbing the painful area.
